ATHMA, BRONCHITIS, GENERAL DEBILITT AND ALL SCROPULOUS HUNGRS.

THE proprietor has succeeded (from directions
I of Probesor Stone, in combining the Oll and Line so perfectly that the taste of the Oil, which is to ransons, to persons generally, is entirely overcome, and it can be taken by the most delicate foundes with pleasure. And as regards the benefit of this article over the clear oil, the following care, by Professor Stone, is sufficient to convince the most sceptical. The young lady was 24 years of age.

Affer disease was one of unmixed plathicis, which had been expected to terminate in the content of a few meaths fatally. The 'upper part of both her langs was filled with their criss, and in some places were beginning to saften! The caror was evidently a had one. The treatment of Cool Liver Oil was at first used, but without marked improvement. The Phosphate of Line was then administered with the Oil; and the result, as in the case of many others, was soon apparent.—
The patient was rapidly getting well.?

This preparation does not like the Cod. Liver Oilbecome rancid which makes it very desiredlie for Persons travelling as it keeps fresh for a long time.

CHARLES ALLEN, of North Kingstown,

IF Mr. Jaell gires his second and last Concert at the Dining Hall of the Ocean House, tomorrow evening. his first Concert the Hall was crowded, and very many were unable to obtain scals. The satisfaction which he then gave as a Pinnist, may be judged of from the fact that his praise was on the lips of all who attended, for days afterwards. He is the most eminent musician, in that branch of his profession. who has ever visited America. There will be a brilliant gathering of beautiful ladies and gallant gentlemen tomorrow evening; and we are quite certain that Juell will make one his most powerful ciforis.

IF At the meeting holden at the Ocean House yesterday morning for the jurpose of making the preliminary arrangement for the Grand Ball of the Season, J. H. B. Latrobe, Esq., of Bahimore, was chosen Chairman, and Mr. Lewis, of Philadelphia, Secretary, The meeting was very large and spirit ed, much no re so than on any previous season. The meeting resolved to have a Grand Fancy and Dress Ball, to be given at the Ocean House on Thursday e-ening next, September 2d, and appointed a committee of thirteen to nomihate managers and make the arrange-

We notice that Madame Widemann is to give a grand Concert in Bosto a toil or row evening. We congratu late the Bostonians that they are to be favored by so accomplished an artist.-Madamo Widemann is the most splen did contratto we have ever heard; her style of singing is one which will be very popular, and she will be an univer sal favorite in this country as soon as she becomes known to the people. In Paris, her reputation is immense; and in New Orienns, where she song many times, she met with the most triumphan success. At hor Concert here, she was loudly applauded by the audience, who perfectly showered her with bouquets. Let the Bustonians give her a glorious welcome, and when they hear her, she will immediately become a marked favorite with them. She will be assisted by Mons, Genibrel and Signor Bassini, who are canneat in their profession, the one as a vocalist and the other as a

UP We have already said that the Matinee Musicale on Wednesday was well attended, and recieved with much lavor, as it well might be, considering the character of the music, and the fact that the audience included a large number of people of musical taste and cultivation.

The Quartello by Schubert (a production very seldoni performed in this country) appeared to be a very difficult composition, but was skilfully performed. It is a beautiful composition, the Andante was perfectly ravishing, as the performers entering into the spirit of its pathetic flowing melodies, and rich harmonies, regated us with music, in which the lyrical sweatness of Schubert seemed fused with the profundity of Beethovens harmony.

The Septetto by Hummel is also a fine composition, in which Mr. Scharlenberg delighted the audience with the skill and excellent taste, of his performance on the Piano Forte.

The concluding piece, a Nonetto by Spohr; it is deficult to say whether we were more pleased with the light and graceful Scherzo, the grand and stately Adagio, or the rich and higly wrought Finale, but we hope soon to have ar opportunity of listening to it again.

Unquestionably the experiment of a Morning Concert, has been successful and we may look forward to a course of such, another scason, attended by the tashion and beauty of the place.

The last concert of the Germania Society will be given on Monday night and we would bespeak for it a genera attendance, as a parting testimonial of appreciation, on the part of both visitors and citizens.

Mr. Polk resumed, saying that after all the illiberal, unfair, and shameful attacks on Pierce, it was necessary to review Sout's history, and hand down to posterity a denial that Scott is all that his friends claim for him, and history would show this. He then sucke of would show this. He then spoke of Scott's persecution of Worth, Dunean, Dickinson, Pillow and others, being envious of their fame, and not wishing them to share the honors of the camthem to share the honors of the campaign. These soldiers were the victims of Scott's veageance, and Scott was not only unworthy as a civilian, but is a magnificent humbug. Facts prove these things. After mentioning many things told to him by the late General Worth, he said that Scott was sitting in proud state when Santa Anna's. Revere House, Boston, Aug. 25, 1952. DEAR CRANSTON, -

I not still at this magnificent hotel. And who blaines me for remaining here as long as possible? Is it not the best house in the wide world? Is not Stevens the very prince of land lords? Age not his assistants before almost any others in the world? And where can the weary traveller find such accommodations such rooms---such buths--such sumptuous fare—such thoroughly drilled domestics—as he finds at the Revere House? "O ye gods and little fishes," how sumptuously we lare every dayand, if the story of the rich founds the indication of relative position in the next life, are not all who tarry at the Revere, liable to a warm reception when they shall have thrown off there mortal robes? Come to Boston and see the Revere - Gage, I do engage, will do the liandsome thing by you; and sober faced Pearson, will put you through in the top! atyle.

By the way, I find many, indeed, most of the prominent characters I mer at the Ocean House, at the Revere. Visitors naturally pass from the one to the other. The Ocean House in New-Port, and the Revere in Boston!

You will learn from the Boston pa pers that Madame Widemann and company, in whose welfare you took such deep interest in Newtort, are to give a Concert at the Melodeon next Saturday night, in costume, with a good Orchestra. She will draw a full house. Madame looks splendadly when robed for the stage. She is just the kind of artiet to suit the Bostonians-and when they once know her worth, they will go crazy with admiration. The stages and coaches have just acrived with fresh cargoes of putrons to this house. One would judge that in such a crowd there would be much confusion; but the order, despatch and precision of this establishment are astonishing. If you want a servant, you have only to pull the bell rope, and your call is answered before your hand leave the rope. There will be a more severe struggle

There will be a more severa struggle the coming November than has ever yet disturbed the tranquil waters of the old Buy State.

The Maine Liquor law has no effect on the Boston Hotels, because the land professional licenses in season, for the year—and before the twelve months expire, the law will be repealed; it was a pire, the law will be repealed; it was a season of the law will be repealed; it was a price, the law will be repealed; it was a season of the law will be repealed; it was a price, the law will be repealed; it was a season of the law will be repealed; it was a price, the law will be repealed; it was a season of the law will be repealed; it was a price, the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the season, for the law will be repealed; it was a price of the law will be repealed; it was a price of the season of the law will be repealed. pire, the law will be repealed; it was a political lever, and will be thrown aside before its friends can upset the world with it. This is a drop of comfort for the spirituous pilgrim.

H. TIMS. Two Sabbatus -- At Westerly, R. I., s presented the very singular leature of two Sabbaths every week. Almost one half of the inhabitants are Seventh Day Baptists, who keep Saturday with great sacredness, and on noaccount wil do any work. The remainder observed Sunday as a holy day, and as sudiously avoid all labor. The result is, that, on Saturday, a portion may be seen going to church, a part of the stores are closed, and some of the factories are shorthanded or closed entirely. On Sunday the same thing is to be observ ed. A part are engaged in worship and acts of devotion, while their neighbors are busily at work, and public worship is disturbed by the din of business and the noisy bustle of the crowd. Both parties appear sir cily conscientions, and live peaceably logether, although the partial observance of two days is very annaying and inconvenient -N. Y. Tel-
